

INFORMATION FOR PATIENTS

Hand Therapy: Wrist exercises

What do these exercises do?

The following exercises are designed to help you stretch and regain movement in your wrist.

How often should I do them?

Repeat each exercise 10 times every hour. This way your wrist will be stretched little and often throughout the day. This is the best way to regain and maintain the movement.

How hard do I push?

With each exercise, take the movement only as far as you feel an uncomfortable stretch. Then hold this stretch for five to 10 seconds.

Exercises

1) Put the palms of your hands together. Slowly lower your hands and raise your elbows. Remember to keep your palms together so you feel a stretch.

2) Rest the side of your hand on a table. Bend your wrist forwards and backwards.

3) Rest your hand over the edge of a table, palm down. Make a fist and lift your hand up. Relax your fingers and take your hand down. Remember to keep your forearm on the table.

4) Rest your forearm on a table with your hand facing palm down. Slide your hand from side to side, moving at the wrist and making sure your forearm stays still.

5) Rest the side of your forearm on a table with your hand over the edge. Move your hand up and down.

6) With your elbow tucked into your side, turn your hand palm up, then palm down. Remember not to move your elbow.
